

CAPITOL JACK-STRAWS.

Points on Legislation, Legislators and Matters More or Less Connected with the Asylum of Wisdom on the Hill.

The bill of Representative Fullam of Ludlow providing against more than ten hours' work by employees of corporations and regulating discharges without proper cause of leaving without notice.

The Committee on Issues reported a bill appropriating $25,000 for the support of the insane poor at Waterbury, and $6,000 for a like purpose at Brattleboro.

And there shall be redness of eyes!

It is said that the recent junket of the committee to Windsor, Rutland and Vergennes cost the state nearly $700. It is a fact, it was a scandalous waste of the public funds.

Editor Frank Greene's bills are progressing favorably in committee, all but one providing for the closing of lightning bugs with honey bees so that the latter can work in the night. An adverse report is expected on this for the reason that the committee fear the bees will generate electricity and fire to the legislature. The bill to encourage the breeding of honey bees has reached its third public hearing, and the bill to render roadsteads edible by an injection of fuel oil is in its last stages. His bill repealing a law of nature and preventing the growth of weeds is being amended by the committee so as to include bills to reform the tax law. Frank is a promising candidate for a position on the forestry commission, where he promises to compel some bushes to grow sweet pickles by grafting.

The Free Press says: "Our good neighbors of Montpelier can have one concluding thought. If the State capital is moved, they will have no further occasion to worry over the failure of the Legislature to cause the removal of the State house fence and the beautiful rest?"

One of the jolly good fellows of the House, who is with a thoroughly first class business man and careful legislator is Mr. Rowland of Poultney. He has a clear comprehension of the work of the House, and both in committee and on the floor is a most efficient legislator.

The lively sessions have arrived, when a red-hot discussion or lots of fun can be looked for at any time. That this is understood is indicated by the crowded audience which are flocking to the Capitol and witnessing the alleged deliberations.

Hon. C. S. Page, who has been in town for a day or two, has been given a royal occasion by hundreds of old friends and hosts of the boys who, the friendship of the governor is something to be proud of. If he had been just chosen vice-president his welcome would not have been more cordial. One of Nature's noblemen and a man whose friendship is a signal honor is Carroll S. Page. In office or out of office, his memory will never be dimmed by forgetfulness.

If Mr. Porter of Wilmington ever comes to Montpelier again—and many hope he will—or if he ever in the days to come meets with one of the boys around the session of "naughty-naughty," he will meet a cordial and enthusiastic friend. He has a vision of a high order, a rare faculty for winning friends and is a white man clear through.

One of the hard working members in the committee and an efficient director of the legislature is Mr. Burdett of Pittsford. Few Vermonters are better known, and everybody knows how well Pittsford would be served and how it would be distinguished in having him.

A man of broad mind, keen perception and originality of ideas is Mr. Burdett of Middlebury Springs. He is also a quiet power in the House, and when he says anything there is sure to be meat in it.

The brightest and ablest member of the town of Stannard has been to the House in years is Mr. Sawtelle. He is full of good ideas and hard work, and is making a good record.

If some men were receiving the adulation which is being heaped on the autumn head of General Gilmore they would negotiate a thirty day option on the earth and advertise for a few ex-governors out of a job to act as champagne passers, but the General is otherwise occupied. Nevertheless, he will continue to harness his own horse to go to the village for the mail, and carry his boots to be tapped while he waits.

It appears that there has been no cattle commission in this State since 1892. In that year the commission was abolished and the duties of agriculture named as cattle commissioners. Nevertheless, cattle have been habitually been drawn in favor of the cattle commission, and there appears to be a general misunderstanding as to the existence of the commission as a local body.

Not "high license," but "local option." The former term is cumbersome, misleading and improper, conveying a wrong impression and indicating ignorance or carelessness. Therefore, call it local option.

The bill allowing females over twenty-one years of age to be elected town treasurer, town superintendent, and town librarian, was passed by the House this morning.

The bill compelling all practitioners of medicine to present to the State board of health their diplomas from a medical college of standing passed the House Wednesday. The certificate from the board allowing them to practice costs $5.

The Senate repeals the act allowing towns to close their liquor agencies. It then voted violently with the bill to prevent the hooking of fish when they have not taken bait, and threw it with very violence that it was killed.

The Senate bill allowing an annual sum of $300 for assistance in the State library was passed by the House, after being amended to make the appropriation $150 instead of $300.

The bill of Senator Lealand to obviate the necessity of sending a man ahead of steam automobile run against a man in the House on the question of the passage, but was finally passed on a close rising vote. Of course the opposition was either ignorance or a joke.

The bill of Mr. Hazen of Windsor to increase the pay of members from $3 to $4 per diem came up on special order, and an amendment was moved by Mr. Hazen to make it $200 for the fiscal year. On motion of Mr. McIntyre of Danby the bill was dismissed. After much hilarity and good feeling the House turned in and passed the high water commissioner's bill of the venerable member from Weatherfield.

With the defeat of Representative McLean of Underhill as Judge Advocate General on Tuesday the last day of the session of the Vermont Legislature, the hope of the Democracy for recognition died. They had everything to gain and nothing to lose, and they have gained nothing and lost nothing. It would have been a very graceful thing for the majority to have allowed them this office, but not even this crumb could be spared. Mr. McLean's vote of 62, however, indicates that a few Republicans took this view of it. At the beginning of the session the House

PAGE'S PERFECTED POULTRY FOOD

It Makes Hens Lay.

Read what is said about it by your neighbors.

From H. B. NICHOLS, Middlesex, Vt.

I am fully convinced that PAGE'S PERFECTED POULTRY FOOD is the only thing to use when people wish to derive a benefit from their fowls. It not only PREVENTS THEM FROM EATING THEIR EGGS, but gives a decided increase in the number received.

From C. C. PUTNAM & SON, Putnamsville, Vt.

PAGE'S PERFECTED POULTRY FOOD is a good seller and is giving entire satisfaction to our customers.

From C. O. PERLIN, Cabot, Vt.

PAGE'S PERFECTED POULTRY FOOD is all that is claimed for it. I have given it a thorough trial and my experience is that when I feed it as directed I get good returns in eggs, and when I stop feeding it and give them only corn I don't get an egg, which convinces me that it pays to use it. I consider it just what its name implies—"A Perfected Poultry Food."

From HENRY LEET, Topsham, Vt.

PAGE'S PERFECTED POULTRY FOOD is the best poultry food we have ever tried. Our hens have LAID BETTER for the past year THAN EVER BEFORE. Enclosed find check for another barrel.

From F. H. KETCHUM, Randolph, Vt.

I have used quite large quantities of PAGE'S PERFECTED POULTRY FOOD and THINK VERY HIGHLY OF IT. Shall continue to use it.

From H. G. CHURCH, Vershire, Vt.

PAGE'S PERFECTED POULTRY FOOD has given perfect satisfaction. I have sold it on the road from the station, and now I HAVE CALLS EVERY FEW DAYS TO BRING THEM MORE.

From N. K. GOODWIN, Tunbridge, Vt.

I have used PAGE'S PERFECTED POULTRY FOOD and am convinced that I GET MORE EGGS than I should without it.

Agents wanted to sell this Poultry Food in every village where it is not now on sale. For terms to agents, address the manufacturer,

Democrats stood within the shadow of immense possibilities, but one by one fond hopes have been shattered and naught remains but a job lot of vain regrets. They were certainly worthy of a better fate.

As Representative Dana of New Haven so well said yesterday in his brief speech seconding the nomination of Hamilton S. Peck for Judge Advocate General, "If Burlington would not be worth living if it had a general by the name of Peck," and therefore the acting void was filled by the joint assembly with all possible dispatch. Gen. H. S. Peck has for some time past been the victim of untoward and vexatious circumstances. He was defeated in his aspirations to succeed himself as mayor, every city and State office has eluded his grasp, the Congressional nomination went to a detected rival and had it not been for this providential opening he must necessarily have remained a private citizen. And it is an awful thing to have once held office and then be forced to remain a private citizen—in Burlington. Finally, however, he has kicked a goal and escaped a whitewash. Congratulations to Judge Advocate General Hamilton S. Peck and to Burlington.

The Bristol Herald says: "The Vermont Fish and Game League members met for an annual banquet last evening at Montpelier. The presence of several local members of the League, who gave the occasion an air of solemnity—or something else."

It did, brother, it did. And sooner or later they connected with the "amex."

Editor Greene's bill to compel the proprietor of every meat market where sausage is sold to take out a dog license will certainly pass the House, but its passage by the Senate is in doubt.

The Legislature has at last paid its "debt of honor" and many anxious hearts are tranquil. The Dowry celebration is now finally ended.

Mr. Lewis of Norwich, is the time-saver of the House, moving with unvarying regularity that private and incorporating bills be read by their tellers only. In this way he is of inestimable value.

The first lively argument in the House Friday came along when the bill abolishing the board of agriculture came up. Mr. Currier of Troy led off with an explanation of the work and expense of the board and expressed the opinion that the board was of no consequence as compared with the money expended by it. The board was effectively defeated by Chairman Davis of the committee. Mr. Currier explained the matter further from his point of view, and the board was sustained by several members. The gentleman from Waterbury made a decided point by the remark that if the board was to be abolished the cow and sheep of wheat should be removed from the banks of the State, and the fishery and the Pan-American exposition substituted therefor. The bill was finally dismissed by an overwhelming vote.

Game Commissioner Titcomb says that there are heavier existing in Essex county in small numbers, living altogether in the banks of the stream, and being hunted by the game warden. He thinks that the proposed law protecting the animals will serve to largely increase their numbers in that section of the State. Mr. Titcomb will give an illustrated address on the subject among other subjects at the dinner this evening.

The joint military committee will go to Bennington tomorrow afternoon to inspect the Soldiers' Home.

The House committee on agriculture will report the bill abolishing the board of agriculture unfavorably by a two-thirds majority, but the matter will probably be considerably discussed in the House.

Apparently the entire schools of Cabot, Marshfield and Plainfield came to town Wednesday morning by special train, and the Capitol was then surcharged with bright and interested boys and girls all day.
